≡ 05

Link local address

New concepts were introduced with IPv6, one of them was the introduction of Link local address. What is IPv6 link local address used for?

Selecione uma alternativa

A	IPv6 link local addresses are autoconfigured by a device and used to communicate with the internet

B	IPv6 link local addresses are autoconfigured by a device and used to communicate with another IPv6 host on the local network

C	IPv6 link local addresses are autoconfigured by a device and used to communicate with routers on the same network

D	IPv6 link local addresses are autoconfigured by a device and used to communicate with another IPv6 host on the same segment only