☰ 02

Unicast

You have a junior network engineer and your task is to explain what an unicast communication is. What's your answer?

Selecione uma alternativa

A   An unicast communication happens when one device distributes its message to all devices listening on the IP address 255.255.255.255

B   An unicast communication happens when one device distributes its message to just another device

C   An unicast communication happens when one device distributes its message to a group of devices on the network

D   An unicast communication happens when one device distributes its message to all other devices on the network