☰ 06

Full-mesh x Partial-mesh

What is the main difference between full-mesh and partial-mesh?

Selecione uma alternativa

A   Full-mesh is a term used when we have a direct connection with all other clients whereas partial-mesh is a term used when we have some connections with other clients

B   Full-mesh is a term only used when we need to directly connect a site to all other different sites whereas partial-mesh is a term only used when need to partially connect a site to different sites

C   Full-mesh is a term used when we have many different topologies in a diagram whereas partial-mesh is a term used when we have only one topology in a diagram

D   Full-mesh is a term used when we have some connections with other clients whereas partial-mesh is a term used when we have a direct connection with all other clients