

The Canary and the Friendly Horse

Once upon a time there was a canary who had a great friend: a very gentle horse. One day, the canary broke its wing and couldn't fly. Even so, he needed to cross a small stream to take food to his chicks in the nest. He then saw his friend the horse and asked for help.

— Of course I'll help you! — said the horse. — Get on my back!

Carefully, the horse crossed the stream with the canary on its back. Upon reaching the other side, the canary smiled and asked:

— Can you help me get up to the nest too?

The horse responded with a gentle whinny and, with great delicacy, lifted the canary up the tree, very close to the nest. Thus, the little chicks could eat and were very happy. And the canary thanked his great friend: the one who never let him give up.

And they all lived in great friendship!
